Once you're logged in, you'll see a list of your outstanding reviews, as well as any reviews you've completed that are still in review by others. Select a proof to review.

If the proof uploader left instructions, you'll see them before starting your review.

Here's what the review environment looks like in the app:

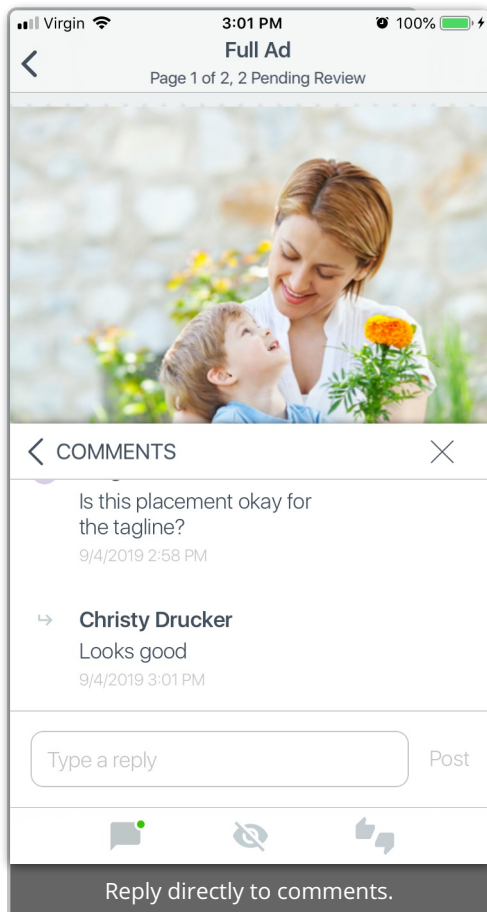

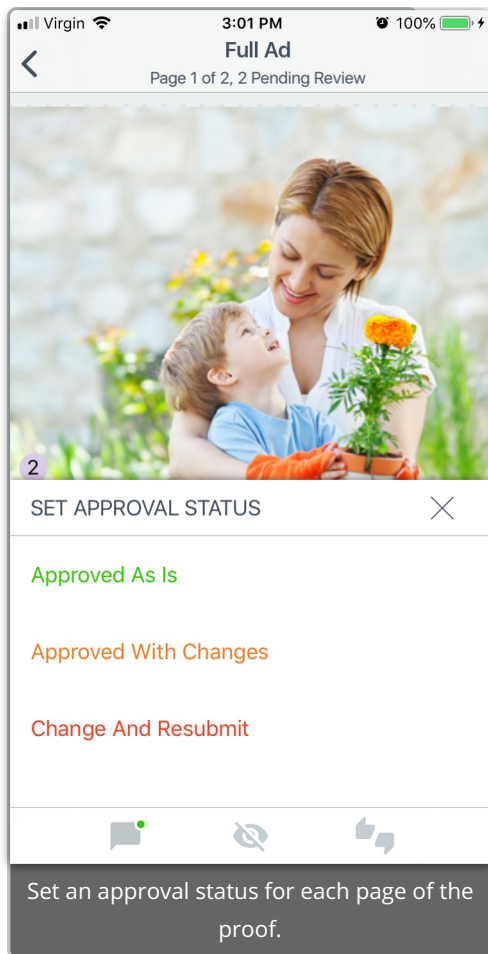

The chat icon on the left lets you add and reply to comments. If there are existing comments, including ones from annotations, you'll see a green dot on the chat icon.

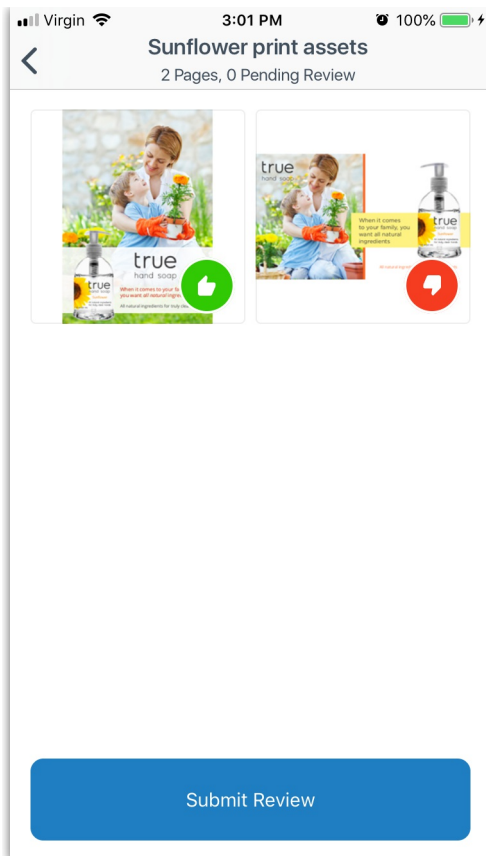

The eye icon in the middle lets you hide annotations if they're cluttering your view of the asset.

The thumbs up/thumbs down icon on the right is where you select your approval status.

Once you've set a status for each page of the proof, you can see those statuses at a glance before submitting your review.

You'll be prompted to confirm your submission, then you'll see this confirmation before being redirected to your outstanding reviews.
